Seyda Neen and the Sixth House

Beginning the Adventure

The journey to Seyda Neen is swift and should get the players right to the point where they can start interacting with the village and making decisions. The DM may wish to require a traveling order to get players used to being on guard.

You finally exit the dreaded cave of that soul sucking gem. It exits in what you immediately recognize as the Bitter Coast region of Chardenfell. On the horizon to the south west, you see the peaks of the Ascadian Isles, and just behind you, the cave mouth is coming just out of major foyada, the remnants of the ancient lava rivers that once dominanted ancient Chardenfell.

The bitter coast is hard to navigate. It is mostly wetland, and in addition to the many willow and oak trees that create a thick and low canopy, giant mushrooms called parasols rise up to impressive heights, often towering above the tree line and casting great shadows. After a short period of gathering yourselves and getting your bearings straight, you are graced with incredible luck and spot a silt strider path.

Being more or less entirely lost, this is by far your best chance at finding civilization from the wilderness. You follow the path of the distinctive circular footmarks of the great beast, hulking animals with 12 long legs and a chitinous shell at the top where its riders sit. They are the primary means of overland transport throughout Chardenfell and critical to trade routes throughout much of the heartland where the ashlands and foyadas would otherwise prove impassable.

After a few hours you spot civilization! It is a much needed stopping point as you grow weary, hungry, and thirsty. It is a simple village on the horizon. You come across a signpost that says "Seyda Neen" in Dark Elvish. The is modestly sized, you'd estimate maybe holding only a few hundred residents. It has a very simple silt strider port on the north end , and generally seems to be set in a very idyllic and fertile plain of the Bitter Coast, and you can see many clearly worked fields of kresh fiber and ash yams, two crops very common in Chardenfell.

Approaching the village, the first building you come across seems to be a simple farmhouse with a barn attached. A young dark elf woman is grinding herbs, flowers, and mushrooms with a mortar and pestle, but she sees your group and runs into the house at your approach. Shadowy forms are visible behind closed curtains.

The adventure begins as characters enter along the west edge of the village map.

Most buildings are unmapped. If entered, describe a typical one-story interior with front and back doors. Many have porches.

Key to Seyda Neen

1. Pleasant Farmhouse and Barn

Approaching the village, the first building you come across seems to be a simple farmhouse with a barn attached. A young dark elf woman is grinding herbs, flowers, and mushrooms with a mortar and pestle, but she sees your group and runs into the house at your approach. Shadowy forms are visible behind closed curtains.

Llenula Dram and husband Adavos watch through windows; daughter Llenada hides in kitchen. Llenula speaks politely but won't allow strangers inside. She knows the town has changed but not why.

Barn: ash yams, herbs, kwama eggs, 4 guar.

Hidden: under bedroom floorboards -- 85 gp.

2. Constable's Quarters

This nondescript square wooden building has heavy shutters closed over the windows. The door looks stout, but stands open. No people are visible. Behind this building is another long, low structure.

Cult Members! Constable (sheriff) Alandro Sul (8 months) with cousins Aveno and Avano (recent converts). Alandro politely questions the party, warns them to stay out of trouble. If party asks too many questions, they intimidate them to leave.

Alandro Sul: AC 18 - Breastplate and Shield - HP 15 Atk +3 Atks 1x (1d6 + 2) - Longsword

Aveno Sul: AC 18 - Chainmail and Shield - HP 15 Atk +3 Atks 1x (1d6 + 1) - Shortsword

Avano Sul: AC 16 - Netch Hide and Shield - HP 15 Atk +3 Atks 1x (1d6 + 1) - Spear

Desk: 30 gp.

3. Empty Barracks

Former silt strider guard barracks. Empty.

4. Dairy Farm

This house and barn are clean, limewashed wooden buildings. Several guar hang out just outside the barn. Three nix-hounds puppies are playing in the yard of the house stop to gawk at your group.

The nix-puppies yip but don't attack. Dairyman Devalo Graven may invite friendly strangers in for trama root tea and guar cheese. Concerned about town but has no answers.

Hidden: 82 gp in milk can in barn.

5. Weaver's House and Shop

A sign with a spinning wheel and a loom hangs outside this new building. Several bales of kresh fiber are stacked on the wide porch. No people are visible.

Ulen and Uloo Henakul, are friendly newlyweds. If talked to, they will warn the party that Gold Kresh Pub is strange and should be avoided.

6. Gold Kresh Pub

This is a large wooden inn. It is decorated with carvings of sheaves of kresh fibers along the eaves of the roof. The inn was limewashed at one time, but much of the paint has peeled. A sign picturing a cluster of kresh and a pitcher of mazte hangs over the door. A guar corral and stable, apparently empty, are off to the side.

See full description following the Key. Cult headquarters.

7. Jeweler and Moneychanger

A gem-encrusted ring is pictured on a sign outside of this establishment. The doors and windows are open. The building is small, but looks extremely sturdy; the shutters and doors are of heavy wood, reinforced with iron bands.

Fevris Ull (AC 10; hp 3) exchanges currency (5% fee) and works stones/metals. Lives with elderly father (AC 10; hp 8; Str 16) and guards:

Erroll Rocktyn: AC 15 - Gambeson and Shield - HP 26 Atk +3 Atks 1x (1d8 + 1) - Longsword.

Wylle Dunn: AC 15 - Gambeson and Shield - HP 20 Atk +3 Atks 1x (1d6 + 1) - Shortswords and throwing daggers.

Wylle is a cult member waiting to betray his employer.

Shop display: jewelry worth 1,400 gp, 800 gp, 400 gp (x2).

Office metal box: 1,000 gp mixed, 30 gems (1,000 gp, 500 gp x2, 100 gp x3, 50 gp x4, 10 gp x20).

Hidden trapdoor in bedroom: 3 locked chests with poison needle traps. Keys on amulet around Fevris's neck. Chests contain: 2,400 gp, 220 gp, 5,000 gp + gems (1,000 gp x5, 500 gp x5, 100 gp x5). Only Fevris and his father knows about these chests.

8. Livery Stable

This is an exceedingly run-down structure of wood. Faint traces of a former paint job cling to small parts of the walls, but in some places the bare wood has started to rot. A fenced walkway leads from the road to the back of the house, and guar manure is scattered liberally about. A small lizardfolk child, his face covered with dirt, is playing on the front porch. As you approach, he toddles out to the road, smiles, and says "hi!"

Lizardfolk liveryman T'zilothi (AC 10; hp 5) and timid husband R'val with 3 children. T'zilothi is affable but keeps guests on porch.

Observations: suspicious of newcomers at cottage (9), warns about Gold Kresh Pub, notes general store family vanished for a fortnight and returned changed.

Stables: 6 light guar, 2 draft guar, 2 nix-oxen, 2 nix-hounds, 2 carts.

Hidden: life savings (950 gp + 200 gp gem) buried in farthest stall.

9. Small Cottage

This small, square building has been freshly white-washed. Heavy curtains hang over the windows, and the door is shut.

Home of wood elves Dorian and Llywillan, investigating for the mayor.

Dorian: AC 16 - Chain Shirt and Shield - HP 25 Atk +3 Atks 1x (1d8 + 1) - Longsword / Longbow; magic missile, protection from good and evil, web

Llywillan: AC 15 - Netch Leather - HP 20 Atk +3 Atks 1x (1d8 + 1) - Longsword / Longbow

Know cult controls: priests (21), Gold Kresh Pub (6), constable (2), blacksmith (15). Will only share info if party proves hostile to cult. Won't join party.

Hidden metal box in cupboard: locked (-10% pick), key in Llywillan's quiver. Prying releases sleep gas (no save, 3-18 hours). Contains 2,055 gp and note from Lady Raven Dres requesting aid.

10. Arbiter's Residence

This house is set well back from the road, and is partially screened by a pair of medium-sized mushroom tree stalks. This is by far the most imposing house in the village. The walls have been regularly limewashed and the roof gleams with new wooden shingles. A wide porch crosses the entire front of the house, and columns of wood support the overhanging roof. The columns have been carved into leafy patterns by a skilled craftsman.

Home of Lady Raven Dres, dark elf spy CR 1. Polite and curious, seeks information more than gives. Suspects: storekeeper, smith, carpenter, priests are cult members. False hypothesis: old hermit in grove is behind everything.

Bodyguard Trevor Stoutheart (veteran CR 3) hidden in curtained alcove, attacks at any perceived threat against the arbiter.

Behind house: husband's woodcarving workshop.

Hidden under floorboards is a locked chest (key in husband's tunic) with 4,564 gp + 3 gems (1,000 gp each).

11. Tailor Shop

A sign crudely depicting a needle piercing the seat of a pair of pants hangs before this establishment, a small, ramshackle building in need of considerable repair. A shutter hangs loosely, shingles are missing from the roof, and the walls show signs of rot in several places.

Drinar Indranos is a terrified man who lives alone. Only allows one person in shop at a time.

Hidden: 105 gp among cloth bundles.

12. Village Store

This is a fairly well-kept establishment with an assortment of farm implements and cooking utensils on the wide porch. The door stands open, and a well-painted sign depicting a pot, a plow, a sack, and a lantern hangs over all.

Cult Members! Family of humans converted 3 months ago: Theodore Miller, wife Melba, sons Ashton, Jack, Thorsten (AC 10; hp 5,3,7,6,5) with Shortswords. Sons aim crossbows from behind curtain.

Friendly front. Mundane items always available; PHB items 75%; weapons/armor 20%. Offers wine (80% chance best ever tasted).

Cashbox: 50 gp.

House chest (poison needle, key under mattress): 108 gp. Rest donated to cult.

13. Rundown Farmhouse

This house is in desperate need of repair. The front door, porch steps, and visible roof supports are missing. The barn is in even worse condition, but the many bantams in the yard suggest that the place is indeed inhabited.

Cult Members! Baluven Drom and son Bolayn (AC 10; hp 6,5). Rude, untalkative.

Only treasure: 31 sp in kitchen jar. Rest donated.

14. Carpenter's Shop

A wooden board in the shape of a saw hangs before this well-constructed building. The front part of the structure is unwalled, and inside of this breezy area the carpenter is at work. Many tools (saws, hammers, nails, prybars, etc.) are scattered about, and some boards are mounted on sawhorses.

Cult Members! Nevalo Daras and Illyna (AC 10; hp 3,3) are recent initiates; their adult daughter is held in temple. Wife is hidden from the party while they talk to Nevalo. She carries longsword with snake venom (DC 11 or 1d6/round until healed), attacks if husband threatened.

Hidden: secret panel in bedroom wall. Carved wooden box (worth 400 gp) with combination lock. Contains 500 gp + 500 gp jewelry.

15. Blacksmith's Shop

This is obviously a smithy, though no sign hangs here. The shop part of the building is unwalled, and two brawny lads operate a bellows while a giant of a man hammers thunderously upon a piece of metal that will soon become the blade of a shovel. Soot and smoke abound.

Cult Members! Fathrys Daras and Eloyna members ~1 year. 25% chance strangers trigger rage. Insults have 66% chance to enrage. Both fight at 0 level: smith warhammer or shortsword, wife shortsword. AC 11 (netch leather aprons). Valuables donated.

16. Battered and Weather Beaten Structure

The doors and windows of this large building are boarded up. A sign lies face-down in the weeds before the porch, which may be reached by climbing three broken steps. The roof has several gaping holes, and the general appearance of the place suggests that it has been long abandoned.

Sign: Bungler's Bane Tavern. Abandoned ~1 year after cult attack.

Not truly abandoned. Secret door in rear wall. Cellar: musty, rotten, swampy stench. 3 ash zombies hiding in toolroom.

Ash Zombie: CR 1/2 AC/DC 12 HP 22 (17-28) Atk/Prof +4 Atks 1× (1d6 + 2)

Corprus Stench -- Bonus Action Constitution Saving Throw: DC 12 Any creature within 5-feet of the beast must save or. Failure: The target has the Poisoned condition until the start of its next turn. Success: The target is immune to this beast's Stench for 24 hours.

Hidden chest in tool crate: 250 gp + 5 gems (100 gp each).

17. Decrepit Farmhouse and Collapsed Barn

Doors and shutters swing freely here. The whole appearance is one of abandoned desolation. Weeds choke the yard before the house.

Family dragged off 9 months ago, transformed into ash slaves.

Hidden: under rear porch steps -- 55 gp + jade statuette (200 gp).

18. Farmhouse and Barn

This farm looks moderately prosperous. The house and barn are in good repair, although several flower gardens that used to bloom in the yard have become choked with weeds. A strapping youth is splitting wood in the yard beside the house.

Cult Members! Breida Mels and son Saras members ~1 year. Son recruits/subdues captives, transports prisoners. Both CR 1/4.

CR 1/4: AC/DC 11 HP 13 (10-16) Atk/Prof +3 Atks 1x at (1d6 + 2)

If suspicious, son spies and reports to priests. Valuables donated.

19. Farmhouse with Several Small Outbuildings

The smell of this area identifies it as a netch farm. Netch are large and generally peaceful creatures native to Chardenfell that resemble airborne jellyfish with the size and disposition of cattle. They float through the air supported by internal sacks of magical gases, and come in both wild and domesticated varieties. In addition to the domesticated netch, many bantams scratch about the yard. An adult but young male dark elf watches from the porch of the house.

Arara (AC 10; hp 6), proud farmer, disturbed by changes. Won't answer questions; displays crossbow, orders trespassers off. Son aims crossbow from house.

Hidden: savings (382 gp) in wooden box in netch feed.

20. Small Neatly Kept Cottage

Brilliant flower gardens surround this quaint little home. Clean shutters flank several large windows, and fancy curtains are visible inside. The building is sheltered by several large elm trees.

Vilmaven Aren, elderly widow, astute observer. Weak, can't walk far. Welcomes visitors for tea/mazte. Suspects: carpenter (14), smith (15), farmers (18, 19), priests (21), farmer (22), elves near mayor (9).

Has seen figures with lesions crossing to temple. Priests changed after being gone for a week ~1 year ago.

Rings: 1,000 gp, 800 gp, 500 gp, 200 gp. Unlocked case: 4,500 gp jewelry. Cookie jar: 350 gp.

Devout Almalexia worshipper — harming her brings bad luck (DM can force 3 rerolls).

21. Temple of Almalexia

This is the only stone structure in Seyda Neen. A wall of granite blocks surrounds the temple, and sturdy wooden gates give access to a courtyard. The temple is on the highest piece of land in Seyda Neen—a full 20′ above the stream and pond.

Cult Members! See Temple Key following main Key.

22. Shabby Farmhouse and Barn

This residence gives the impression that it has seen much use and that its owners have had little time for improving its appearance. A small infant is playing next to the house, and several bantams poke about the yard. A bantam is a small lizard slash bird creature native to Chardenfell often referred to by outlanders as "Ugly Chickens" since they are also often raised for their meat and eggs.

Cult Members! Recently converted Savani family: elders Thiran and Nevena, daughter Evesa and husband Vonos, son Ondar. Distant, removed, short attention span. Shrewd questions may yield info.

23. Prosperous Farmhouse and Barn

Two small nix-hounds play in the yard, but at the sight of the party they immediately run for the house. This building looks solidly constructed and has been recently limewashed. The barn is a clean structure, though not painted, and several bantams wander in a small corral. A pen housing an immense guar is visible just south of the barn.

Retired adventurers: Albe Calyn (AC 16 armored, HP 25, 2x +3 for 1d6+1) and Aldo (AC 17 armored, HP 20, 1x +3 for 1d6+1). Polite but firm.

Secret closet: Albe's old chain shirt +1, shortswords, shortbow, 40 arrows; Aldo's splint armor, shield, longsword, spear. Locked strongbox: 930 gp + gems (1,000 gp x2, 800 gp, 600 gp).

Albe gives secret sign (50% chance to notice). Knows neighbors at 22 left for 10 days. Mentions bedraggled hermit in grove to west.

24. Abandoned Farm

This is a fairly well-built house that has had all of its windows and doors boarded over securely. The barn doors swing freely in any passing breeze.

Vacated months ago. Vilmaven Aren (at 20) used to live here. Empty.

25. Retching Netch Inn

A large, colorful sign pictures a red netch with its belly bubbling and a stream of liquid coming out from its "mouth" if netch's had a distinct mouth you presume it would be about there. The image is rather comical if not necessarily the most appetizing visual. This inn is smaller and older than the Gold Kresh. Several beds of flowers brighten the front, however, and the large middle-aged dark elf woman sweeping the porch looks cheerful. She greets you with a friendly wave.

Thanea Felder and Vedran run this inn. See full description following Key. Friendly, reasonable prices.

26. Millhouse Waterwheel and Pond

Around this large mill is scattered much in the way of children's toys, tools, and farm implements. The most imposing part of the structure is the tall millhouse, but it is obvious that a family lives in another wing of the building. Two elven children play in the yard, but stop and stare at the sight of your group.

Miller Nels Famori, wife Uresa, her parents Llaalsa and Geron, child Tilore. Friendly but suspicious. Aware of strange activity at Gold Kresh Pub.

Hidden: family treasure in locked box (Geron keeps key) under old mill wheel in cellar: 720 gp + 3 gold rings (100 gp each).

27. Grove of Emperor Parasols

The narrow trail winds among majestic emperor parasols, the massive tree-like mushrooms that dot the Chardenfell landscape. There are smaller trees and bushes between the parasols that get rather dense, rising to a height of eight or ten feet. The parasols themselves average 75' tall, and they are the only parasols here. They are widely spaced, allowing much sunlight to pour between their ancient caps.

Tavos Baram, elderly Telvanni mage, lives in ramshackle cottage. Weak legs, rarely leaves. Has pet bantam.

Knows more about cult than anyone. Will aid party after gaining trust (weeks, shorter if they fight cult). Too old to accompany.

Wizard-locked lead-lined box under floor: elven cloak, 2 healing potions, potion of haste, wand of unstable magic missiles (8 charges). On 20: double missiles; on 1: backfire. Also 85 gp + gems (1,000 gp x3, 800 gp, 750 gp).

Spells: up to 3rd level. HP: 70. Has scrolls/ potions.

If asked, can craft potion of enhanced senses to follow ash zombie stench to the dungeon.

Key to Specific Areas

Gold Kresh Pub

Gold Kresh Pub

Cult headquarters. Owner Hlonil Belden (AC 10; hp 8) carries dagger. All customers are cult members.

1. Common Room

> This room seems like a pleasant place. You notice the people here are subdued, generally sitting alone. Those sitting together are not talking and no fires are lit in the fireplaces. Several barrels of light and dark mazte are tapped behind the bar.

Cult Members! 4-10 customers. 80% chance assassin Dinor Dartis (room 6) present. Hlonil offers drinks, rooms. If suspicious, offers reduced rates or drugged drinks to arrange ambush. Food/drink poor quality, outrageous prices.

2. Kitchen

> This room is obviously a kitchen. Jars of saltrice, whickwheat, ground flour and dried meat can be seen stored in several open cupboards. A short, rat-faced man is busily wiping off a none-too-clean table.

Ronath Llayron (AC 11, HP 15, 2x +4 for 1d6+2), rude cook. Master of drugged drinks (delay 2d6x10 min, DC 11 Con save or unconscious 5-10 hours). If party affected, Hlonil calls 5 cult members from room 11 to capture.

3. Outhouse

Sagging shack with hole.

4. Hlonil's Den

Four comfortable chairs, fireplace, table with chairs. Crates of plates/mugs.

5. Hlonil's Bedroom

Large bed, desk with poor records. Brass-bound chest (slow gas trap, key under bed frame). Chest: aprons, longsword, clothing. Secret panel: 187 gp (cult offering). Rug conceals trapdoor to cellar secret room (18).

6. Large Guest Room

Dinor Dartis (Thug). 20% chance here; otherwise common room. Shortsword, netch leather armor. Masquerading as cult member but siphoning funds.

Iron strongbox under bed (poison needle trap, key around neck): gems (500 gp x2, 450 gp, 300 gp, 200 gp), 160 pp, 1,087 gp. Three potions: poison, healing, gaseous form.

7-10. Guest Rooms

Rooms 7-9: 2-4 beds, secret doors for kidnapping (one-way, opens from far side). Room 10: posh, 4 gp/night.

11. Cult Members' Room

> This room looks like common sleeping quarters. There are five armed men in this room, who rise when you open the door.

5 cult members (CR 1/4): AC 14 HP 13 Atk +3 for 1d6+2, netch leather, shields, shortswords. Aid kidnappings. Penniless.

12. Cult Utility/Dining Room

Two tables, eight chairs.

13. Small Guest Room

Avalhyr Balen (AC 10; hp 4), Balmora merchant, charmed. Ransom paid. Will betray rescuers.

14. Dormitory Room

Rarely used; currently empty.

15. Main Cellar Room

The stairway from the kitchen ends in this dark and musty room with no windows. Many tables and chairs, some broken, are stacked against the south wall. Cobwebs cover much of the ceiling, filling in the spaces between the rafters.

Unlocked doors flank stairs. Secret door to room 18.

16. Wetgoods Storage

Kegs of mazte/sujamma. Outside door locked/barred from inside.

17. Drygoods Storage

Crates of inn supplies.

18. Secret Meeting Room

Secret door catch: pull torch socket in room 15. Table, benches, ladder to Hlonil's room (5). Barred door to southeast.

19. Underground Passages

The corridor beyond the southeast door has been hastily excavated from the dirt, and is shored at 5′ intervals with heavy timbers on the walls and ceiling. The ceiling is only 6′ high. The floor is smooth dirt, and there is an odor of must and decay here. The air is unusually cold. Many rats scurry for cover as the door is opened.

Harmless rats.

20. Central Chamber

The corridor gradually descends away from the inn. At first, there is only 6′ of headroom, but in this room the ceiling is 10′ off of the floor.

Balmora constrictor snake on rafter.

21. Secret Treasure Room

Canvas-over-frame secret door. Three empty chests.

22. Large Dirt Chamber

This room appears empty, and is noteworthy only for the fact that the timbers at the far end have collapsed, leaving a pile of loose earth against the wall.

Disturbing dirt awakens giant shalk (treat as fire-based ankheg).

23. Ghoulish Vault

3 ash zombies are the true horror of this bone-littered room.

Ash Zombie: CR 1/2 AC/DC 12 HP 22 (17-28) Atk/Prof +4 Atks 1× (1d6 + 2)

Corprus Stench -- Bonus Action
Constitution Saving Throw: DC 12 Any creature within 5-feet of the beast must save or. Failure: The target has the Poisoned condition until the start of its next turn. Success: The target is immune to this beast's Stench for 24 hours.

24. Statue of the Ascended Sleeper

Entering this chamber you are met with an incredibly disturbing statue. The first thing you notice is the "face" if one could call it. It is incredibly oblong shape with many distinct holes in it. At first you think them eyes, but upon closer inspection you realize, horrifyingly, that these are truly holes. And they connect to a series of tentacles sprouting from the face with holes on the end. This creature fills your gut with a sense of pure dread. You know not what this horrific creature is, but it is not of this world. The last thing you notice are the hands, which look decidely like normal dark elf hands. This extremely detailed carving has been created out of what you presume to be malachite, or some other colorful volcanic glass, skillfully blended by a master craftsman and raised on a stone dais.

Worth 5,000 gp, heavy. Breaking reduces value 1,000 gp per break; 15% cumulative chance each break shatters it.

25. Empty Chamber

Nothing.

Retching Netch Inn

Retching Netch Inn

Thanea and Vedran Felder run this homey establishment. Prices reasonable, quality good.

1. Common Room

> In the daylight: The shutters are flung wide and sunlight streams into the room from a number of large windows. At night: Three fireplaces give the room a cheerful atmosphere.

2-8 customers (25% chance one is cult spy). Vedran offers free exceptional mazte to newcomers. Knows Tavos the hermit; suggests party see him.

2. Kitchen

Neat, well-ordered. Thanea rules here.

3. Parlor

Comfortable chairs, fireplace, table, games.

4. Bedroom

Kresh fiber mattress, desk, bookshelves. Walk-in closet: loose board hides 1,020 gp.

5. Outhouse

Clean.

6. Brewery

Vedran's mazte brewing. Office with records, vats, casks, fresh mushrooms.

7. Guest Room

Luxurious featherbed, 2 gp/night.

8. Storage Closet

Extra linens.

9. Guest Room

Fluffy bed, 5 sp/night.

10a-b. Dorm Rooms

Multiple beds, 1 sp/bed/night.

Supplies, food stores, kegs of mazte. Nothing special.

Temple of Almalexia

Temple of Almalexia

Cult Members! Granite temple dedicated to Almalexia, now corrupted.

20' granite wall. Strong wooden gates with Almalexia carving.

1. Courtyard

Gardener (AC 10; hp 4) rude, directs to temple. After dark: gates barred, 2 nix-hounds patrol with 2 servants.

Nix-Hounds (2): AC 12; HP 11; Atk 1x at +4 for (1d6 + 2) Servants: AC 10; HP 5; Atk 1x at +3 for (1d6 + 1)

3 off-duty servants join any fight.

2. Outbuildings

Kennel and servants' quarters. General supplies.

3. Central Sanctuary

This large room has a tile floor decorated with an abstract mosaic pattern in orange, tan, brown, and blue. Several tapestries decorate the walls, all depicting various beautifully rendered dark elves who some of you would recognize as famous saints of the tribunal temple. Five huge tree trunks serve as columns in the room, and a statue of Almalexia, carved from a solid piece of jade, is mounted on a low dais at the north end of the room.

If Marise Present: Tending to the statue you see a dark elven priestess. Her outfit is immaculate and she has lots of nice jewelry. One of Almalexia's domains is beauty and this priestess certainly exudes it.

Marise Delvi (see room 9) meets visitors. Non-members not allowed beyond. If hostile, she flees to warn temple. Jade Almalexia statue worth 5,000 gp, weighs 10,000 gp.

4. Meeting Room

This is apparently a larger room, divided by a rich blue drapery just west of the door. The area that you see is empty except for three plain wooden benches. Behind the drapery is a softly carpeted room with three comfortable chairs placed around a low table. A small shelf to the side holds several unopened bottles of Seyda Neen Special mazte, and a half dozen cups.

5. Dining Hall

Display case with local harvests.

6. Kitchen

3 ovens, cupboards, table.

7a-e. Meditation Cells

Former prayer cells. Each has reed mat.

- a. Empty.
- b.-d. Each occupied by 1 evil monk (AC 10; HP 9; Atk +2 for 1d6+1; basic spells). If west door opens, all ready; fight only if cell door opened.
- e. Mat covers trapdoor to lower level (area 19).

8. Marise's Outer Chamber

3 benches. East door locked to room 9.

9. Marise Delvi's Quarters

A small bed, a trunk, and a desk are the only items in the room. If Marise Present: Writing in a scroll at the desk you see a dark elven priestess. Her outfit is immaculate and she has lots of nice jewelry. One of Almalexia's domains is beauty and this priestess certainly exudes it.

Marise: cult fanatic. Trunk: clothes, chainmail, shield, mace (if not worn). Trapdoor under bed to lower level. Sixth house amulet worth 1,000 gp. Assorted potions.

10. Hall of Statues

White tile floor, alcoves with golden statues of Tribunal saints (Rilms, Seryn, Felms, Meris, Llothis, Olms). Each contains 500 gp gold, worth 5,000 gp. Touching triggers Almalexia's curse (DC 18 Cha save or permanent disadvantage on random ability; failure = permanent until atonement). Curses cumulative. Success = penalty only for rest of day.

11. Guardroom of the Undead

This bare room contains only some wooden benches and 6 statues which release ancestor shadows upon non cultists entering this room.

6 shadows attack non-cultists.

Shadow (6): AC 12; HP 27; Atk 1x at +4 for (1d6 + 2 Necrotic, reduce Strength score by 1d4, the target dies if strength is 0 or less); can turn invisible in darkness as bonus action.

12. Library

Books on agriculture/religion. Ornate volume with defaced illustrations.

13. Small Meeting Room

This chamber contains a small table and two comfortable chairs, with an unopened mazte bottle and two clean glasses on a shelf in the corner.

Scamps in room 15 spy through secret door slits. When party enters room 14, 9 scamps attack.

Scamp (9): AC 15; HP 10; Atk 1x at +4 for (1d6 + 2 melee or ranged spell); resistant to non-magical weapons.

Attack in groups of 3 through secret doors.

14. Torture Chamber

A rack and a table with heavy straps attached to it occupy the center of the room, and an iron maiden stands in the corner. Several empty pine boxes, about 6′ x 2′ x 3′, are stacked against the west wall.

Former storage, now torture room.

15. Scamp Quarters

This room is barren, except for nine kresh fiber mats and a low, crudely-built table.

9 scamps summoned from Oblivion as guards.

16. Antechamber

The door to this area is unlocked. When it is opened, several small bells attached to it will chime softly. The walls of this chamber are scratched, stained, and covered with strange markings. Loose chips of stone lie scattered on the floor. Aside from the southeast exit, the room appears empty.

Ambarys Delvi (priest) watches from corner b. Flees if party too strong, otherwise attacks. Assorted potions and charged magic items.

17. Ambarys' Chamber

This room is decorated in a bizarre fashion. There is a dirty straw pallet on the floor, yet two soft and expensive armchairs rest at a low table. A beautiful robe hangs on the wall above a battered, locked chest, while the floor is strewn with muddy rags. An exquisitely crafted wooden desk has been placed near the northeast corner of the room. At various points around the walls, small iron hooks for hanging tapestries have been set into the stone.

Nothing valuable. Desk covered in insane Daedric scribbles. Chest: ripped clothing, worthless ivory fragments.

Secret door to room 18 (DC 10 detect, hidden switch on desk). Can be barred from other side.

Ambarys carries ring of keys.

18. Secret Altar Room

This large room is dirty and unkempt, with shards of rock lying around four crude granite statues standing about the room in haphazard locations. In the southeast corner is a polished jade figure of a snake with a female human head that is set apart from the other statues by its obviously superior crafting and material. Near it, a small cage with iron bars holds the listless figure of a dark elf woman clothed in tattered rags. In addition, two brass-bound chests sit next to the east wall.

Sedyni Daras (AC 10; hp 4), carpenter's daughter, imprisoned. Resisted charm; mistreated. Knows everything but won't return to lair. Chests nearly empty (15 gp).

Obsidian Ascended Sleeper statue worth 7,500 gp, unbreakable without losing value. Granite statues are crude scrib, 2 kwama, cliff racer.

Secret trapdoor behind statue to room 9 (ground floor).

19. Hidden Hallway

Connects rooms 7e and 9 via trapdoors.

20. Maze

Small maze with iron spikes. Contains starved manticore.

Manticore: AC 14; HP 40; Attacks 3x at +5 for (1d6+4)

Won't attack cult sign-bearers. Always hears door open.

21. Secret Door

Opened by pulling low spike. Leads to crawlspace with year-old grave of temple servant. Nothing valuable.

22. Ash Zombie Tunnels

> This earthen tunnel has no stone shoring or supporting timbers. Consequently, much fresh dirt lies on the floor.

Two stairways descend 80' to fork. Shrieker watchfungus (AC 7; HP 15) here. 4 ash zombies at north end hear alarm.

Ash Zombie: CR 1/2 AC/DC 12 HP 22 (17-28) Atk/Prof +4 Atks 1× (1d6 + 2)

Corprus Stench -- Bonus Action Constitution Saving Throw: DC 12 Any creature within 5-feet of the beast must save or. Failure: The target has the Poisoned condition until the start of its next turn. Success: The target is immune to this beast's Stench for 24 hours.

Shaded areas: 1' mud, difficult terrain (slows zombies too). Zombies split: 2 per tunnel, attack from both sides.

Eastern corridor: 2 empty prison cells.

Zombie lair buried chest (key in loose dirt at mouth): 120 gp, 5 dark stones, ring of summon bound shield, enchanted dark steel for crafting 1 metal magic item (max +2 weapon).
